

Hill, J.J. - Animal husbandry March 26, 1884

Hill to J. F. Harkness, Waverly, Dakota Am not raising cattle to sell "but rather as a means of showing the Minnesota & Dakota farmers along our line the difference between good and poor cattle. In other words to demonstrate the fact that an animal weighing 1600 or 1800 pounds, worth 6¢ a pound can be raised for less money than one weighing 1300 pounds that will sell for 4½ ¢ per pound." 30 young bulls will be distributed this year.
