" to Hill

Re finding a tutor for Hill's sons.
"Mr. Stephen has been here for two days. He is certainly in fine spirits and is looking much improved.
The C. P. Co., he says, is today out of debt, with nearly $2,000,000 of cash in its treasury. I am very glad for everybody's sake. It was a pleasure for me to tell him how nicely you always speak of him and especially while he has been in so much trouble. He spoke in turn just as nicely of you; no one could speak more kindly and in greater praise."
