Dear John:

Thank you very much for your letter of May 17.
You certainly plan ahead. I have quickly put the dates of April 22-24 down on my calendar and will do what I can to protect them. It will be good to be in Charlottesville again, and it will certainly be good to begin the process of becoming better acquainted with you and your colleagues.

All my best.

Dear Mr. Kampelman, Max

We have rescheduled the Advisory Board Meeting, of the Center for Law and National Security, which was postponed earlier this month, to April 22-24, 1983. Lodging has been arranged at the Boar's Head Inn in Charlottesville. The Center will, of course, pay for your travel and lodging expenses incurred by attending this meeting. I hope that you will be able to participate. As the year progresses, we will keep you informed of activities of the Center and the plans for our first Advisory Board meeting. For your information, I have included a list of those people who have agreed to serve on the Board.

Let me take this opportunity to express how honored we are that you have agreed to serve on our Board. Your involvement will contribute to the successful operation of the Center. If you have any questions or suggestions, please do not hesitate to contact me or Paul Stephan, the Associate Director of the Center, at (804)924-5066.

With warm regards,

Sincerely,

Dear John:

Thank you very much for the invitation of March 30 for the Arms Control Conference of June 22-24. It doesn't quite sound like the bipartisanship conference that you and I talked about and I am therefore assuming that it is not. I say this because it would be extremely difficult for me to make that weekend date without some personal strain. If my assumption is correct, please accept this as a respectful negative. If my assumption is incorrect, I will have to look at it again.

All my best.

Dear Mr. Kampelman:

The Center for Law and National Security, University of Virginia, will hold its third annual seminar entitled "Arms Control and Strategic Stability" at the Boar's Head Inn, Charlottesville, Virginia, on 22-24 June 1984. The Seminar will consist of panelists and keynote speakers who will discuss the critical issues in the area of arms control and strategic stability. We are in the process of lining up a distinguished group from government and the private sector to address the subject. Enclosed are the highlights of the various events.

On behalf of the Center, I extend to you a most cordial invitation to attend this seminar and participate in the various events. Your attendance will contribute to the success of the seminar.

Although the Center is unable to pay for your travel and accommodations in Charlottesville, we will be pleased to arrange accommodations for you at the Boar's Head Inn, the site of the seminar. Wives and guests are welcome to attend all events.

Enclosed is a registration form for the seminar, which includes information on the accommodations at the Boar's Head Inn, and the banquet expenses. Please return it to the Center at your earliest convenience.

Again, I hope you can attend this important seminar and will look forward to seeing you 22-24 June.

Sincerely,

John Norton Moore

Dear John:

Thank you for your letter of February 17th. This response will reach you from Washington, but I'll be in Madrid until the end of March. I'm afraid it is now virtually impossible for me to plan for the April 22nd meeting in Charlottesville. There are all kinds of problems, including the likely fact that we may very well be back in session in Madrid on that date. May I, therefore, propose that we keep this in limbo with the idea of my not attending. In the event I can attend, I'll telephone you.

All my best.

Sincerely,

Max M. Kampelman

Dear Mr. Kampelman,

The Center for Law and National Security will hold its first Advisory Board Meeting April 22-24, 1983 at the Boar's Head Inn in Charlottesville, Virginia. As you have graciously agreed to serve on our Board I hope that you will be able to attend. The Center will pay for your travel expenses and provide accomodations at the Boar's Head Inn. Spouses are welcome.

The Center has been in operation for over a year and has underway a number of programs of teaching and research. Advice and recommendations from you and other members of our Advisory Board will be most helpful to further development. In addition, we also expect to have an interesting program on contemporary national security issues as a partial quid pro quo for your good advice. I hope you will be able to attend the meeting and I look forward to seeing you in April.

An agenda for this meeting and materials for your review will be sent to you within the next few weeks. Attached for your information is a list of other individuals who have agreed to serve as members of the Advisory Board.

Dear John:

Thank you very much for your invitation of August 4. That program for November 5-7 sounds exciting, and I am terribly sorry not to be able to accept your invitation and be a part of it.

You are aware that as of now it is quite uncertain whether I will be continuing with my Madrid responsibilities. Indeed, it is my strong personal preference that I not do so. On the other hand, the meeting is reconvening on November 9, and I have agreed under any circumstances to be at the opening of the sessions and to be in Brussels on November 5. Under the circumstances, you can see why I will simply be unavailable to be with you in Virginia.

All my best.

Sincerely,

Max M. Kampelman

Dear Mr. Kampelman,

The Center for Law and National Security at the University of Virginia School of Law is presenting a conference this fall on the subject of the "United States - Soviet Union Relationship: Prospects for the Future." The conference will address the U.S. - Soviet Relationship in an historical context. We have planned panels on the Military Balance, Points of Tension, SALT/START, Human Rights, INF/MBFR, and Trade. Because of your extensive expertise in the area, we would be honored if you would agree to speak on the Human Rights panel. Attached is a tentative agenda which includes the names of others we have invited to participate.

The conference is scheduled for November 5-7, 1982 at the Boar's Head Inn in Charlottesville, Virginia. Participants will stay at the Boar's Head Inn where the meetings will take place. The Center will pay all of your expenses and provide a modest honorarium of $250.00. Our hope is that panelists will present their remarks as a paper which will be published with others from the conference under the auspices of the Center for Law and National Security.

We anticipate that the audience will consist of leaders from government, universities, and private law practice. Your participation in this conference will ensure its success and I sincerely hope you will accept our invitation. If you have any questions, please do not hesitate to contact me.

With warm regards,

Sincerely,
