

Sept. 2, 1873.

Dear soldier boy,

I have been very sick for many months - & am still unable to work or go round - But think I shall recover yet. I send you a paper same mail with this, containing a little piece that describes my case. I rec'd your <sup>have not only been sick, but in much trouble & affliction</sup> letter of last June <sup>all summer</sup> - & I now write at a venture to see whether you are in Warren - & if so you must write to me at once. I have not forgotten you, my loving soldier boy, & never shall.

My Dear Field;

If you will call at my office I will give you the Whitman letter I promised you.

Only turned them up to day when my promise recurred to me -

Yours cordially
