Physical Details	631 microfilm reels ; 16 mm.
Arrangement	Arranged by year of death, and thereunder by certificate number.
Summary	Death certificates and, occasionally, other documents containing information on deaths that occurred in Minnesota during the years 1956-2001. Each certificate gives some or all of the following information: certificate number; place of death (county and township, village, or city); full name of the deceased; date of death; decedent's sex, color or race, age, date and place (state or country) of birth, length of residence in the United States if foreign born, country of citizenship, usual residence, marital status, usual occupation, social security number, and military service status; spouse's name; father's name and birthplace; mother's full maiden name and birthplace; name and address of the person providing personal information about the deceased; immediate (primary) and contributing causes of death and the duration of each; name and address of the physician or official submitting the information about the death; place, date, and location of burial, cremation, or removal; name and address of the mortician and/or funeral director; and date when the certificate was filed. The certificate numbers were assigned retrospectively at the end of each year (1908-1964) or each month (1965-2001) by the Health Department and correspond to the following arrangement: within each year, 1908-1962, alphabetical by county, thereunder alphabetical by civil subdivision (townships, villages, and cities) (followed by unorganized areas identified by township and range numbers), and thereunder chronological by date of death; within each year, 1963-1964, alphabetical by county and thereunder by date of death without regard to civil subdivision; and within each month, 1965-2001, alphabetical by county and thereunder by date of death without regard to civil subdivision. Certificates for the cities of Minneapolis, St. Paul, and Duluth (in this order, 1908-1980) follow the county sequence for each year or each month; certificates for each city are chronological by date of death. Beginning in 1981 certificates for these cities are interfiled with other certificates for their respective counties by date of death. Certificates for 2001 are incomplete.

NOTE: The online death certificate index contains 2001 death certificate numbers for certificates that are not on the microfilm. Certificates not on the microfilm include numbers 000001 - 000796 and numbers higher than 534515. If these certificates were microfilmed, the Minnesota Historical Society does not hold the microfilm. Patrons seeking numbers falling outside the numbers above should contact the Minnesota Department of Health.

DESCRIPTION OF THE DEATH CERTIFICATES

This microfilm reproduces the official certificates and, occasionally, supplementary documents for deaths and stillbirths or fetal deaths that occurred in Minnesota during the years 1956-2001. A personal name electronic index to the certificates is available at the Minnesota Historical Society's website (<http://people.mnhs.org/dci/Search.cfm/>).

Historical Background

Beginning in 1908 local registrars of the state's primary registration districts (township, village, and city clerks or health officers) and/or, beginning in 1946, county clerks of district court were required by state law¹ to fill out Certificate of Death forms or, when appropriate, Certificate of Stillbirth (1946-early 1960s) or Certificate of Fetal Death (beginning in the early 1960s) forms for all deaths and stillbirths/fetal deaths occurring in their jurisdictions and to forward them to the state registrar at the State Board of Health's Division of Vital Statistics. The transmitted copies constitute the official state record.

The Division of Vital Statistics (administratively part of the State Department of Health, the operating agency for the State Board of Health) was responsible for the general supervision of the state registration system for births, deaths, and stillbirths/fetal deaths. Printed certificate forms were prepared by the division and distributed to local registrars. Their content, which was mandated by state statute, was based on standard certificates of death as recommended by the United States Bureau of the Census, subject to the approval of and modification by the State Board of Health.

Occasionally, a Coroner's Certificate of Death or United States Bureau of the Census Standard Certificate of Death was sent to the state by a local registrar in place of a Certificate of Death. Both of these documents also function as official death certificates.

¹ See Appendix A (p. 10) for a list of major laws regarding the recording of deaths and stillbirths or fetal deaths in Minnesota that were enacted by the Minnesota state legislature. The compiled texts of these laws are available in the Minnesota Historical Society library.

Arrangement

Certificates of Death

The death certificates are arranged by single year and within each year by certificate number, in a single numerical sequence, beginning with certificate no. 1. The certificate number is stamped on each certificate in its upper right corner. The way in which the certificates for each year were arranged and numbered by the Health Department varies somewhat over time.

- From 1956 through 1964, certificate numbers were assigned after all the certificates for a particular year had been arranged by place and date of death. Certificates for each year 1956-1962 are arranged as follows: alphabetically by county of death; thereunder alphabetically by civil subdivision (legally organized townships, villages, and cities) of death, followed by the county's unorganized area/territory; and thereunder chronologically by date (month, day, and year) of death. Certificates for each year 1963-1964 are arranged alphabetically by county of death and thereunder chronologically by date of death, without regard to civil subdivision; certificates with the same date of death generally are filed in alphabetical order by decedent surname and given name. Certificates for the cities of Minneapolis, St. Paul, and Duluth (in this order) follow the certificates for Yellow Medicine County at the end of the county sequence for each year in all years 1956-1964; the certificates for each of these three cities are filed in chronological order by date of death and thereunder alphabetically by surname and given name of the deceased. So-called "delayed" or "late" certificates that were received by the Health Department after the certificates for the year had been arranged and numbered are filed in their proper place in the arrangement scheme; they may have the same number as the preceding certificate, plus an additional number or letter to distinguish it from the preceding certificate.
- From 1965 through 1980, certificate numbers were assigned after the certificates for each month had been arranged in the following manner: alphabetically by county of death; thereunder chronologically by date of death (without regard to civil subdivision), with certificates for the same date of death usually filed in alphabetical order by decedent surname and given name. Certificates for the cities of Minneapolis, St. Paul, and Duluth follow the certificates for Yellow Medicine County at the end of the county sequence for each month, with the certificates for each city filed in chronological order by date of death. Beginning in 1974 the basic certificate number on each certificate is preceded by two sets of numbers, as follows: 122 – [the last two digits of the year—for example, 74, 75, etc.]. The way in which “delayed” or “late” certificates were dealt with when they were received by the Health Department after the certificates for a particular month had been arranged and numbered depended on when they were received. Those received during the same calendar year as the year of death are interfiled by county and date of death in the month they were received with the certificates recording deaths that actually occurred during the month. Those received in a calendar year following the year of death are filed after the certificates for December of the year they were received and are identified in the roll list as “Additional Late Filings.” There are generally two or more units (groups) of these certificates. The certificates in the initial group(s) are arranged by month, thereunder by county, and thereunder by date of death; those in the final group, however, may be in random order.

- Beginning in 1981, the certificates for each year continue to be arranged by month of death, thereunder alphabetically by county of death (without regard to civil subdivision), and thereunder chronologically by date of death, with certificates for the same date of death usually filed in alphabetical order by decedent surname and given name. However, certificates for the cities of Minneapolis, St. Paul, and Duluth are now interfiled with the other certificates for their respective counties by date of death.
- Certificates for 2001 are incomplete. The online death certificate index contains 2001 death certificates that are not on the microfilm. Certificates not on the microfilm include numbers 000001 – 000796 and numbers higher than 534515. If these certificates were microfilmed, the Minnesota Historical Society does not hold the microfilm. Researchers seeking numbers falling outside the numbers above should contact the Minnesota Department of Health.

Certificates of Stillbirth/Fetal Death

During the years 1956 through 1963, certificates of death and certificates of stillbirth/fetal death are interfiled in a single numerical sequence. From 1964 through 1970 the fetal death certificates are filed following the death certificates and are numbered separately, beginning with certificate no. 1 (1964-1966) or certificate no. 80,001 (1967-1970). During the years 1964-1966, the numbers used during each year for “regular” death certificates were reused for the fetal death certificates. The arrangement of these separately filed and numbered certificates for any given year, 1964-1966, parallels that of the non-fetal certificates of death, as described above; from 1967 through 1970, however, they are arranged differently—in four quarterly groupings, each arranged alphabetically by county of death, and thereunder by date of death. Beginning in 1972 the fetal death certificates are again interfiled with the certificates of death in a single numerical sequence.

Researchers should be aware of the following anomalies in the records when searching for a particular death certificate or stillbirth/fetal death certificate, with or without a citation from the electronic death certificate index:

- The certificates were not checked for precise numerical order prior to microfilming. There may be more than one certificate with the same certificate number and gaps in the sequence of certificate numbers. Some certificates may have more than one stamped number, as well as a handwritten number or numbers, in the upper right and left corners. The origin and meaning of some of these non-certificate numbers are not known.
- Citations in the electronic index for “delayed” or “late” certificates for the years 1956-1964, as described on page 2, do not include the distinguishing number or letter following the basic certificate number that may appear on the certificates. Similarly, death certificates and fetal death certificates cited in the electronic index are not distinguished from one another during the years 1964-1966, when both types of certificates each year begin with no. 1 and numbers used for “regular” death certificates were reused for fetal death certificates [beginning in 1967 the fetal death certificates begin with no. 80,001].

- When there is more than one certificate for the same date, the certificates may or may not be in alphabetical order by decedent surname and given name.
- Certificates for the Nett Lake (Bois Forte) Ojibwe (Chippewa) Indian reservation, which is located in both Koochiching and St. Louis counties, may be filed in either Koochiching County or St. Louis County.

The remaining anomalies are relevant when searching for certificates for the years 1956-1962, during which the certificates for each year are organized within each county by civil subdivision, and thereunder by date of death:

- The legal status, boundaries, and names of some counties, townships, villages, cities, and unorganized areas/territory changed over time.²
- Unorganized areas not yet legally organized and, therefore, not yet officially named, usually, but not always, are identified by the phrase “unorganized territory” and/or by township and range numbers, even if they were known colloquially by a proper name during the years preceding their official formation.
- The filing order of certificates for townships and villages or cities with the same proper name may not be consistent, i.e., in some instances certificates for the township may be filed before those for the village or city, while in other instances certificates for the village or city may appear before those for the township.
- Ojibwe (Chippewa) Indian reservations generally are located in unorganized territory. Certificates for these Native Americans are filed as follows: certificates for deaths that occurred on reservations usually are filed by reservation name in a county’s alphabetical civil subdivision sequence; certificates for Indians who died in a civil subdivision located within the boundaries of an “open” reservation may be filed under the civil subdivision’s name rather than under the reservation name; certificates for those whose deaths occurred in an unorganized area of a reservation generally are filed under the reservation name. Dakota (Sioux) Indian communities, which are not reservations, may be either unorganized area/territory or organized civil subdivisions. Certificates for deaths occurring in these communities are filed accordingly.

- Certificates for deaths that occurred at the Fort Snelling Military Reservation are filed in the alphabetical sequence for Hennepin County as Fort Snelling Reservation; they include deaths that occurred at the Veterans Administration Hospital.

Due to these potential difficulties, researchers who do not find a certificate with the number and/or name they are looking for in the expected numerical, geographical, chronological, or alphabetical sequence are encouraged to search the microfilm further.

Contents

Certificates of Death

The informational categories in each death certificate vary somewhat depending on the time period but generally include many of the categories listed below. Not all forms are filled out completely, primarily because informants did not know the information. Each certificate includes some or all of the following information:

- certificate number (preceded by the numbers 122 – [the last two digits of the year—for example, 74, 75, etc.], beginning in 1974);
- “registered number” or “local file number,” the latter beginning in 1967 (the number assigned by the local registrar when the death was originally recorded);
- place of death in Minnesota: county; township, village, or city; length of stay at the place where death occurred; name of the hospital, nursing home, or other institution or, if elsewhere, the street address;
- usual residence and address of the deceased (if an institution, place of residence prior to admission): state; county; township, village, or city; street address; zip code;
- full name of the deceased;
- date (month, day, year) and time of death;

- deceased's sex, color or race (and, occasionally, tribal affiliation and blood quantum of Native Americans), Hispanic origin (if applicable), age, marital status, date and place (state or foreign country) of birth, country of citizenship, education, usual occupation, and social security number; spouse's name, father's name and birthplace, and mother's full maiden name and birthplace; whether deceased was a veteran of the U.S. armed forces and, if so, the war in which he or she served or the dates of service;
- signature or name, address, and relationship to decedent of the informant providing the personal information about the deceased;
- medical certification: immediate (primary) natural cause of death (disease or condition leading directly to the death), antecedent causes, other significant contributory factors and conditions not related to the immediate cause of death, and the duration of each; date and major findings of an operation and/or autopsy; additional information on a death due to other than natural causes—whether it was an accident, suicide, or homicide; where an injury occurred (including city/village/township, county, and state); date and time; how it occurred, and whether it occurred at work—;
- inclusive dates the person submitting the medical information about the death attended the deceased, his or her signature and address, and date of submission;
- whether a burial, cremation, or removal occurred; its date and place; name and location of the cemetery or crematory; signature and address of the mortician or funeral director; and name and address of the funeral home;
- date certificate was filed by and signature of the local registrar;
- date burial or removal permit was issued and signature of the sub-registrar.

Certificates of Stillbirth/Fetal Death

Informational categories in each stillbirth/fetal death certificate also vary somewhat depending on the time period but generally include many of the categories listed below, although not all forms are filled out completely. Each certificate includes some or all of the following information: certificate number; local file number; date and location of the stillbirth/fetal death; child's name, sex, physical characteristics, and whether legitimate; father's name, color or race, age, birthplace, education, and usual occupation; mother's full maiden name, color or race, Hispanic origin (if applicable), age, usual residence and address, birthplace, education, and pregnancy history (live births, terminations); source of the preceding data; conditions of the pregnancy, labor, and delivery; cause(s) of the stillbirth/fetal death; person attending the birth; date and place of burial, cremation, or removal; name and location of the cemetery or crematory; signature and address of the mortician or funeral director; name and address of the funeral home; and date the certificate was filed by and name of the local registrar.

Occasionally, in addition to the death certificate or stillbirth/fetal death certificate, there may be separate notations or a more formal statement that provides additional information on the individual and/or the death and/or a court judgment declaring the individual legally dead. These supplementary items (or "attachments") generally are filmed following the certificate to which they pertain; in some instances, however, they may precede it. Therefore, researchers should examine the film frames adjacent to any frame containing an item relevant to their search. In some instances additional information about the death or stillbirth/fetal death may be handwritten or typed on the reverse side of the certificate. The back of a certificate containing such information is filmed following the front of the certificate.

The Microfilm

Legibility

Some certificate numbers may have been stamped on the certificates with a worn, lightly-inked stamp that produced extremely faint or illegible numerals on the original documents; these will be difficult to read or illegible on the microfilm. Filled-in information on the certificates may be difficult to read on the microfilm due to handwritten entries in faint and/or smudged or smeared pencil and/or ink, typed entries made with a worn typewriter ribbon or worn carbon paper, stamped entries made with a worn, lightly-inked stamp, water damage, and darkened tape used to repair tears and the discolored paper beneath it—characteristics that can produce especially poor contrast between the color of the text and the color of the paper, making legible photographic reproduction especially difficult. In addition, camera operator error or malfunctioning equipment may have resulted images that are out-of-focus or too light or too dark. Finally, some information may be obliterated by ink stains or lost due to paper tears.

Retakes

Retake frames to correct filming problems may be present at the point of error, spliced onto the beginning or end of the roll containing the problem(s), or spliced onto a subsequent roll, as indicated in the roll list.

Roll numbers

The 550 microfilm rolls that reproduce death certificates for the years 1956-1996 are numbered consecutively in a single numerical sequence, as follows: 1–83, 83A, 84–229, 229A, 230–347, 347A–347L, and 348–536. The rolls numbered 347A–347L on the roll list and the microfilm box labels are identified on the microfilm as rolls 217–228. The numbers 217–228, which also appear on earlier rolls, were reused in error on the later rolls. The later rolls have been renumbered to maintain proper filing order.
